Weakened Sector.

(Associated Press)

London, July 7—The second phase of the great battle on the western front has begun. Artillery brought to new positions has begun battering the German defense.

From Verdun Front.

In addition to inflicting enormous losses on the Germans in men, guns and territory, the Anglo-French offensive is reported to have compelled them to withdraw some forces from the Verdun front.

Take More Trenches.

Today's official statement says German trenches on a front of a thousand yards east of LaBoisselle have been captured by the British, who have also made progress in the vicinity of Ovillers and Contalmaison. In the region of Thiepval the Germans regained a section of their lost ground. The Paris war office reported things as quiet last night on both sides of the Somme.

Russians Advance Swiftly.

On the Riga front the Russians launched a tremendous offensive. The bombardment lasted 24 hours and the Germans were helpless because the Muskovites were more heavily supplied with guns and ammunition than their adversaries. An infantry attack followed the bombardment in which the Russians took many prisoners, according to Petrograd.

The Russian army advancing toward Bagdad has fallen back eight miles under pressure of the great forces against it.

Withdraw to West.

Petrograd dispatches via Rome say that in consequence of their triple defeat in the sectors of Riga, Kolki and Baranovitch the Germans have begun to move their whole front westward.

Violent Fight On.

The British resumed their offensive in certain sectors east of Albert Dawn today and at the same time the Germans launched heavy attacks on the British trenches near Amiens. Violent fighting is in progress.

Seize British Ship.

Berlin officially announced this afternoon that the British steamer Lestrin, 1400 tons, had been seized as a prize by "German high sea forces" near the English coast.

Berlin Statement.

Berlin announced today: "The result of heavy engagements north and south of the Somme all last night was not unfavorable to the Germans."

Belvidere Has Mystery; Human Skeleton Found In Deep Gully

Belvidere, July 7—A skeleton, apparently that of a tall man, almost entirely free of flesh, to be found in a gully near the east edge of the city last Monday, furnishes a mystery that it is likely will never be unraveled.

The skeleton, discovered by two boys who happened to be on the edge of the gully, was partly clad in what had been a black coat, black trousers, and a light brown vest. The shoes, still clinging to the feet, were heavy and of rough pattern. Beneath them some flesh remained. The remainder of the skeleton was entirely divested of its fleshy covering. Two teeth were missing on one side of the upper jaw. There is no clue to the man's identity. In the vest pocket was a lead pencil, a for-

HISTORIC BELL WILL REMAIN IN OLD SITE

Church Bell 175 Years Old Will Be Kept at Kaskaskia,
Illinois

(Associated Press)

Belleville, Ill., July 7—The historic church bell of Kaskaskia, Ill., the gift of King Louis, XV, of France to the Church of Illinois, will remain on Kaskaskia Island, near Chester, Ill.

The bell was given to the parish church 175 years ago, and in recent years has rested on the floor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Kaskaskia—the new town, the old town having been washed away by a change in the course of the Mississippi river.

A few weeks ago, Rev. Father Grotnes, pastor of the parish, arranged to sell the bell to the Illinois State Historical Society, but Bishop Althoff of Belleville heard of this and objected.

Father Grotnes had had the bell created, preparatory to shipment to the bishop at Belleville. A protest on the part of the parishioners resulted, and Bishop Althoff directed that the relic remain in Kaskaskia.

PERSHING HEARS VILLA RUMOR

Bandit Chief is Said to Have Force
Near Parral—No Change Along the Border.

WARNS U. S.

(Associated Press)

Washington, July 7—Carranza has advised the state department of the virtual destruction of a de facto government force by a large force of Villa bandits at Carralities, Chihuahua, and suggests that the American border patrol exercise all possible vigilance, as he feared the bandits had crossed the desert to attempt a raid.

Washington, July 7—A brief note accepting Carranza's proposal that differences between Mexico and the United States be settled by direct negotiation and expressing gratification over the desire of the de facto government "to reach an adjustment of all difficulties on a broad and amicable basis" was handed to the Mexican ambassador after the cabinet meeting today.

The note says: "The United States is prepared immediately to exchange views as to a practical plan to remove finally and prevent a recurrence of the difficulties."

San Antonio, July 7—Gen. Funston's advice from the border today indicated no change in the military situation. Gen. Pershing has reported that a rumor reached him of Villa's reappearance south of Parral with a force estimated at from 800 to 2000.

Guard on Border.

The greater part of the national guard that was prepared to respond to the call has already reached the border.

Washington, July 7—The war department announces that it soon will call out the regular army reserve to fill up the ranks of the new organizations of regulars provided for by the army reorganization act. The reserve consists principally of men who have been honorably discharged from service. The call affects between 4,000 and 5,000 men.

Prepare Reply to Mexico.

Washington, July 7—President Wilson is prepared to enter into a discussion with General Carranza, which will settle once and for all the questions between the American and de facto governments.

The American reply to the conciliatory note from General Carranza, which is being prepared by Secretary Lansing, will express the satisfaction of the administration with the tone adopted by the "first chief" and will declare that the American government is determined to obtain a solution of the questions at issue based upon friendship, justice and fair dealing.

Border First Essential.

It is the view of the president that the "protection of the frontier" referred to by General Carranza as one of the "two essential problems" concerning the two governments, is in fact the most important problem, the withdrawal of American troops which General Carranza cited as the first "essential problem" being subsidiary thereto.

"Maintain order in northern Mexico," the president says, "and the troops will be withdrawn without delay."

Chicago, July 7—The first death resulting from infantile paralysis in Chicago since June 29 was reported to the health department. Charles Wenz, three years old, was the victim. Eighteen city physicians, under the direction of Dr. John Dill Robertson, Chicago health commissioner, are watching incoming trains from the east as a precautionary measure against the possible development of an epidemic of infantile paralysis, such as is said to be prevalent in New York. It is planned to keep up the inspection of trains for two weeks or more.

BOY LOST ARM IN PLAY AT ROCHELLE

RAN UNHEEDINGLY IN FRONT OF CARS ON NORTHWEST-
ERN TRACKS

WAS AMPUTATED AT ELBOW

Rochelle, July 7th—Carelessness in a play will cost Henry Priestad, the 10 year old son of Mrs. Minnie Priestad, a widow with seven children, ranging from 6 to 13 years of age, the use of his right arm and the remainder of his life. Henry and one of Rasmus Johnson's boys were on their way up town from their homes between the Burlington and Northwestern tracks about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon when they stopped to fool with Oscar Jacobson, an employee of Tilton's tailor shop. Jacobson in the play chased the boy and Henry started to cross the Northwestern track just as a way freight was making a flying switch. A heavy freight car knocked the boy down and in falling he threw out his right arm across the track, the heavy trucks severing the member at the wrist and splintering the bones and grinding cinders into the flesh to the elbow. The youngster was, also, bruised about the head and shoulders.

A. M. Peck, manager of the Rochelle Gas Co., summoned Dr. E. J. File, the Northwestern's physician, and the injured boy was rushed to the Lincoln hospital where Dr. Chandler and File decided to amputate the arm just below the elbow. The boy rallied from the operation in fine shape and in his version of the story insists that the gates were not lowered. An eye witness of the Washington street accident contradicts this story and says they were. The boys were to have attended a moving picture show. Mr. Priestad resides at the corner of 4th and 6th streets.

THINK COMPTON P.O. ROBBERS ARE CAUGHT

WM. KELLER AND JAMES KEN-NEDY, TAKEN AT AURORA,
ARE SUSPECTED.

ABANDONED STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

Revolvers and Burglary Tools Were Found In Car Left Near That City on Monday.

Aurora, July 7—Wm. J. Keller and James Kennedy, arrested Monday after they had abandoned a Ford automobile at Montgomery, are suspected of having blown the safe at Compton, Ill., last Friday night. The safe was blown by three men, two of whom answered the description of Keller and Kennedy. They escaped in a Ford automobile.

Photographs of the two men under arrest here have been sent to the city marshal and postmaster at Compton. If they resemble the men suspected, several witnesses will be sent to Aurora to identify them. The three men were seen loitering around the post-office the day of the robbery.

Revolvers Found.

In the automobile abandoned by Keller, Kennedy and the third man, Chief of Detectives Wirz and Detective Cooley found three loaded revolvers, a kit of burglar's tools, a drill similar to those used by safe blowers and a large amount of jewelry. Keller and Kennedy had about $80 in their possession, most of it being small change.

The automobile the men abandoned was stolen from Grant Park, Chicago May 24 and is owned by C. E. Chapman of Sturgis, Mich. Chapman drove to Chicago and left his machine on the lake front. When he went after it he found it was gone. He came to Aurora today and identified the car.

Wanted in Chicago.

Keller and Kennedy are also wanted in Chicago, according to a telegram from Acting Chief of Detectives Larkin, who wired Chief of police McCarty that he was sending two officers to Aurora after the pair. They are wanted in Chicago on a charge of grand larceny.

When questioned by the Aurora police Kennedy said he purchased the automobile from a man named Shea in Chicago. He said Keller and he were friends and were touring the country in the machine.

CAR JUMPED TRACK; BRIDGE IS DAMAGED

INTERURBAN CAR CRASHED IN-TO IRON WORK OF STRUC-TURE TODAY.

The interurban car leaving Dixon at 2 o'clock for Sterling this afternoon, in charge of Motorman Grove and Conductor Heckman, jumped track about half way across the Galena avenue bridge, throwing the front trucks crosswise under the car, a wheel breaking through the planks and knocking the steel bridge work into a rainbow shape. A corner of the car was badly damaged. No cause is given for the accident. In a few minutes Supt. Courmyer had a wrecking car and force of men there and pulled the interurban back to the car barns.

The passengers were transferred to another car for Sterling.

It will require much work to repair the damage to the bridge. The car was not exceeding the usual rate of speed in crossing the bridge.

CASE OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS IN OGLE

DREAD DISEASE OF CHILDREN

TERRIBLE TOLL IN NEW YORK

Twenty-Two Dead There Within Last
Twenty-Four Hours—
Total of 196.

(Associated Press)

Springfield, Ill., July 7—Two more cases of infantile paralysis, one near Oregon, Ogle county, the other at Kankakee were reported today, bringing the total in the state, outside of Chicago, to nine.

One Death in Chicago.

The first death from infantile paralysis in Chicago since the outbreak of the epidemic in New York occurred yesterday. No new cases were reported in Chicago today.

Terrible Death Toll.

New York, July 7—During the 24 hours ending at 10 o'clock this morning 22 more children died of infantile paralysis and 87 new cases were reported. A total of 196 deaths from the epidemic have been reported, the oldest a boy of seven.

Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, secretary of the Illinois state board of health, has issued the following warning concerning the dread disease which leaves the little sufferers hopeless wrecks if they survive its ravages:

Poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis is, as its name suggests, a form of paralysis. It affects the gray matter of the anterior portion of the spine.

It has its inception in an inflammatory state which merges upon a paralysis of lower and upper limbs, but finally, in most instances, devotes itself to the lower limbs exclusively.

Sense of motion is lost and waste begins. Growth in the affected limbs ceases and the result is club foot, shortened limbs and other deformities if death itself does not intervene.

To fight the scourge these rules should be observed:

Immediate report of suspected cases to health authorities.

Restrict all affected children to the premises. They must not come in contact with other children.

Thorough disinfection of patient and everything coming from the sick room.

Milk containers must not be removed from quarantined premises. Milkman must not touch utensils.

Members of family should use 1 per cent solution of peroxide hydrogen for gargle and general disinfectant.

Books, toys and other things used to amuse patients must be burned. Library and school books must not be returned.

Household pets must be strictly excluded from the building.

Care of the teeth is highly essential as a preventive measure.

MOTOR BOATS.

A motor boat is a small, frail vessel, the water out of the gasoline. sel, afflicted with a gasoline engine. When this is all done the boat will and an amateur mechanic. When the start immediately and proceed with engine is in full cry and the mechan- the utmost cheerfulness to a point ic is making threats, the boat some- eleven and three-quarters miles from times develops a speed of fifty miles civilization, at which place it will go an hour in its efforts to get away into a state of coma for the rest of the day. The man who tries to navi- gate any motor boat, no matter how expensive, without an auxiliary en- gine in the shape of a stout oar, is not wise.

Motor boats are used by men fond of machinery, and keep them from taking more valuable things apart and repairing them. When a man has a motor boat and 2 bushels of tools he is perfectly happy and will not stay at home Sundays and attempt to dissect the plumbing or repair the furnace or tune the piano or revive the door bell. A very small boat with an engine in it two sizes larger than an alarm clock will keep two strong men busy all summer, and will even prevent them from adding to the horrors of a presidential campaign by talking politics—for the motor boats take precedence over politics or the cost of living when two boat owners are concerned.

A motor boat is very simple, unlike an automobile, and can be started very readily by putting in a new spark plug, adjusting the vibrator, replacing the carburetor, repairing the feed pipe, tightening the propeller, renewing the batteries and strain

WOMAN HAD NERVOUS TROUBLE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SINCEBAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.

Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, headache, dizziness, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ence, red tape and ability are all mixed together out here, in a manner that would drive a business man like you crazy.

"I have no intention of wearying you with tales of 'hurling' shells and the deafening roar of cannon, making your blood run cold with sights that disgust you, and yet fill you with deep sympathy; of shocks and hairbreadth escapes; of tales of valour, and of trembling knees; of the brave British officer shaving under shell fire (although I have done that stunt many a morning without cutting myself); of shots that pierced the tunic to be deflected finally by the small bible presented by the blue and the brown eyed maiden of Bloomsbury Square; of the bullying officer being saved by the fresh-faced youngster fulfilling a 'noble revenge.'

"Strangely enough, in my short experience, I have seen many of these things, including the winning of the Military Cross at 2 in the morning by a blaze young man somewhat tired of life who, fortunately for me, refused my proffered assistance and who, when he returned to share my dug-out with the sweat of suppressed excitement on his brow, drank two stiff noddies of whiskey in quick succession that I poured out for him, and then failed to find sleep for his over-tired nerves. I have seen the shells I have seen the shells bursting around with no opportunity of running like the devil, as we all felt inclined to do. I have escaped bits of horrible shrapnel by two and three feet and snipers' bullets by inches, and I've eaten bully beef till the cows came home—the bravest deed of all.

"It is a curious feeling the first time one stands surrounded by shell and machine gun fire. I was interested by watching myself to see how I took it. To my intense surprise I was not frightened but only curious—and then sad. Sad at the thought of what it all means, and what I had seen. But I spite of everything I have not for a moment been depressed or nervous. I have had to stand under machine gun fire for an hour at night, so as to impress my men, and reassure them; for I find example is everything in war; and yet I am disgusted with it all—except the spirit of the splendid fellows with whom I am surrounded. Their devotion to duty, their unselfishness, fraternity, and cheerfulness is something to make one proud of one's race. Hard swearing and hard-living men they may be (officers and men alike) but they are the finest fellows one can meet, and their daily conduct is more beneficial than a hundred sermons by the finest parson orator living."

The exact formula on every can

Even an expert cannot tell by looking at varnish whether it is adulterated. That is why it is so important that you should always buy varnish with a guarantee formula.

DEVOE

VERNOSITE

THE LONG LIFE SPAR VARNISH

PALE INTERIOR VARNISH

MARBLE FLOOR FINISH

For outside work and all surfaces exposed to water, use Vernosite. It will not turn white from rain or sleet, and the sun will not blister it.

For inside woodwork where extremely transparent varnish is required, use Pale Interior. It preserves the natural beauty of the wood, is hard to mar and won't scratch white.

For all floors use Marble Floor Finish. It waterproofs the wood, and enables it to withstand the severest wear and tear without marring.

We strongly recommend these three varnishes, because the guarantee formulas on the cans prove that they have been properly aged and that they are absolutely free from rosin and other adulterants.

Never take chances with varnish. Get Devoe and be sure.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

The Princess theatre will present to the theatre goers tonight a photoplay entitled "Jack," featuring Anna Little and Frank Borzage.

The impulses of whimsical women and the coquettish of the weaker sex has been the subject of writers and dramatists since writing became a part of human existence. But there is always something that attracts in these dramas of the loves of men and women. So it is with Jack, Mustang-Mutual two-act drama starring Anna Little and Frank Borzage.

The Mutual Weekly will be shown as well as a comedy entitled "Bungling Bill, Doctor."

THE GARRICK

"Nothing but the Truth" continues to make a large audience laugh at the Garrick Theatre in Chicago. This farce, which James Montgomery dramatized from a book of the same name, is making a reputation for itself in Chicago that will go a long way towards easing it into New York early in August. The farce has met with such universal praise in Chicago that it is sure of being a great success in New York. If you want to spend an enjoyable evening go and see this play.

Ned Bennett is this hero's name and this role in "Nothing But the Truth" is admirably acted by Will Deming, an old Chicago favorite. Mr. Deming will be remembered as the principal player in another great farce which had a long Chicago run, "It Pays to Advertise." He loses no opportunity for fun-making in this new part, and his work in this farce will undoubtedly add to his reputation as an actor.

In addition to these players mentioned who appear in this farce beauty as well as artistry is well represented in Marie Carroll, Ione Bright, Mary Harper, Nona Blake and Beatrice Clevenger. They all do their full share in helping along this very funny play. While "Nothing But the Truth" remains at the Garrick, summer prices will prevail. Evening and Saturday matinee prices will be from 50 cents to $1.50, but the best seats at the Wednesday matinee will be only $1.

PRINCESS-CHICAGO

Henry E. Dixey is exciting much curiosity in Chicago, at the Princess Theatre, as this man of mystery, "Mr. Lazarus," which the press and public declare to be one of the most novel plays seen here in a decade, and unquestionably the funniest.

Not only will "Mr. Lazarus" bring "Adonis" Dixey to the field of comedy in which he has done some of his most delightful work, but it will challenge interest and curiosity on its own account as the latest production of these successful playwrights, Mr. O. Higgins and Miss Ford, who have to their credit already "The Argyle Case," "The Dummy" and "Polygamy." The play is said to be just such a piece of whimsical humor and mystery as will supply an idea vehicle for Dixey in the title role of the western miner returned "as from the dead," and a trifle uncertain of his identity, while the heart of the plot is a romance of young love, full of charm and ardor.

FAMILY THEATRE

Robt. Anderson, Chas. Lowry and Clinton Fahney have been the feature act at the Family theatre the past two evenings and have given the patrons a program of exceptional merit. Mr. Lowry is a violinist of rare ability and his selections were most highly enjoyed. Robert Anderson, baritone, is one of Dixon's most popular singers and his selections are always a treat. Mr. Fahney played the accompaniment as only an artist can, thus making the trio one of the most enjoyable bills seen at the Family. Manager Rorer is to be commended in giving our local talent an opportunity to make good as the feature act on the program, which they did in a most satisfactory manner.

Kelley-Miller

Dixon people will be interested in the recent wedding of Miss Ruth Miller of Franklin Grove, who has appeared with her sister on the Chau tauqua platform here as a pleasing musician, and Harold Kelley, also of Franklin Grove. The Franklin Grove Reporter has the following to say:

The young people motored to Dixon Thursday morning, and then took the train for Chicago, where they were united in marriage in the afternoon by Judge Theodore Britano of the Supreme Court. They were attended by the bride's parents.

Both young people were universally known and their friends are legion, having spent their lives in the immediate vicinity. Of the bride, we cannot speak too highly. She is a charming lady, knowing the duties of the household and willing to perform them. A winning disposition is here, and as a musician she is in the front ranks. She is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Miller. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly and is the right hand man of his father in the garage and also a fine business. He is a steady worker and ready to meet any necessity and he is everybody's friend.

After July 15, Mr. and Mrs. Kelley will be at home in the Peter Kelly residence, this city.

THE VALUABLE ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Because newspapers could not be published at their present prices without a large advertising patronage some readers entertain the notion that large advertisers influence the news and editorial opinions of the paper they patronize. Indeed some advertisers held the same view until they were educated out of it by more or less strenuous experience.

The attitude of the wise advertiser was admirably stated by Edward Filene, representative of a large Boston department store, in his address to the advertising convention in Philadelphia. Mr. Filene said:

"Those papers are more valuable to us as advertisers which resist the pleasure of us advertisers and equally resist the pleasure of any financial interest and try only to serve the common good, for as the reward of that, they command the confidence of their readers. If we advertisers undermine the confidence in the papers we advertise in, eventually they will cease to be good mediums for us to advertise in. Those which command the most confidence of their readers are, as I have said, the ones that get the best results for us."

Mr. Filene's talk not only gives good advice to advertisers, but it explains that disproportion between advertising and circulation which is seen in papers of character and standing. The New York Evening Post, for example, makes no pretense of rivaling the circulation of the Evening Journal or the Evening World, yet it is and always has been, one of the most popular and profitable advertising mediums in the country. The explanation is to be found in the confidence which the Post readers repose in it, and in the fact that a three-cent paper acquires a more intelligent constituency, and one better able to buy the goods to which its attention is called by advertisement, than a penny paper does. It is the old maxim that quality counts, and intelligent advertisers like Mr. Filene know that it applies to their business as much as to any other.—Brooklyn Eagle.

TRY A VACATION AT HOME.

Vacation time is here and scores upon scores are planning their annual holiday. The trains are taking our people to both coasts, the lake boats are landing them at all the resorts along Lake Michigan and automobiles are carrying them to nearby watering places.

There are hundreds of ways of spending summer vacations enough to satisfy every inclination. Everybody has to carry out his own idea of a holiday. Most people think they have to get away from home.

The most sensible vacation under the sun is a vacation spent at home. Employers grant vacations and employees take vacations largely to rest, to prepare for next year's work. There isn't much rest found in traveling at top pace and little in devoting 16 of the 24 hours to strenuous recreation.

Dixon qualifies as a summer resort in every sense of the word, and it is, in fact, as pleasant a place as anybody could wish to find. The man who stays at home can play to suit his fancy. He can sleep in his own bed and eat clean, wholesome food from his own table. He doesn't run any chances of getting filled up with typhoid germs and he doesn't run much chance of bumping into an epidemic of contagious disease.

LOWDEN'S BEST FRIENDS.

It looks as though Mr. Hull, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, might be the best friend Col. Lowden will have in the state, for with Col. Frank Smith and Morton B. Hull both running against Lowden, what little Lowden opposition there may be in the state will be divided, making things almost too easy for the Ogle county candidate. Lowden will sweep this state like an old-time prairie fire, and nothing can stop him from being the next governor of Illinois.

He Was Wrapped In a Mantle of Fire.

Daddy's Bedtime

Story—What Happened To a Flying Trunk.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

DADDY took Jack and Evelyn on his lap and told them: "A young man once had a flying trunk and flew right into a princess's room. To please her and her parents he told a long story about some kitchen matches and the dishes on the shelf in the hope that the princess would marry him. He got along to the place where the dishes had a quarrel, and just then the kitchen door opened and in came a servant.

"The servant took the matches and struck a light. But they were so cross to be interrupted at their party that they sputtered and blazed like anything. 'Now, every one can see that we are the most aristocratic thing here! What a brilliant light we shed in the kitchen!' And then they burned out.

"What a splendid story!" cried the princess's mother when the young man had finished his tale of the matches. "Yes, indeed, you may marry my daughter." "You shall marry her on Monday," cried the king, who had laughed heartily at the quick end of the matches.

"So it was decided to make a holiday and light up the town. Buns and cakes were scattered among the poor, and street boys whistled through their fingers. 'I suppose I shall have to celebrate, too,' said the young man. So he bought a lot of fireworks, rockets and pinwheels and stars and, putting them in his trunk, flew up in the air with them.

"All the Turks jumped with delight, so that their slippers flew off. They had never seen shooting stars like that before. They said it must be the prophet who was going to marry the princess. When the young man came down in his trunk he walked about, listening to what the people said. 'I saw the prophet with my own eyes, and his eyes were like stars,' they were saying. 'He was wrapped in a mantle of fire,' others were saying. 'He had a beard like foaming water,' said some more.

"Delighted to hear such happy things about himself, the young man began to prepare for his wedding. He went back to the woods where he had left his trunk, but where was it?

"He hunted all around in the dry leaves where he had left it on coming down from his fireworks in the sky. But a spark from them had set his wonderful trunk on fire, and it had burned to ashes. He could not fly any more or reach his bride. The poor princess stood on her roof waiting for her lover all her wedding day. She is waiting for him still, but he wanders around the world telling stories, only they are no longer as merry as the one he told about the matches in the kitchen," daddy finished.

CURRENT COMMENT

Edwardsville Republican: Standing pat on the Underwood free-trade tariff law, alone, is sufficient to defeat the Democrats. And this is what they did in their platform.

Sterling Gazette: June has been entirely too chilly to meet the corn requirements and here we measure prosperity and feel prosperity by the size of the corn crop.

Mattoon Journal-Gazette: A few minutes turn around town will show many men who have ample time to go to war, but they are not the sort that makes good soldiers.

Peoria Transcript: Why not send the entire Democratic national platform to Carranza if he can't understand it the vote will be unanimous.

Danville Commercial-News: A Virginian man in Washington remarks that Staunton, birthplace of President Wilson, never went Republican but twice in history, both times since the present occupant of the white house has been directing the government. Evidently Staunton is not suffering of brains'orm over the achievements of the distinguished son. But not ever to keep Staunton in the Republican column can the country afford to keep Wilson in the white house.

Champaign Gazette: Privately the Democrat leaders confess that Hughes and Fairbanks is about the strongest ticket the Republicans could have put up, and if the Progressives go back to the Republican party, as now seems likely, the Democratic leaders are fearful that Woodrow Wilson will have to be satisfied with one term, as provided in the Democratic platform of four years ago.

Quincy Whig: Now that the guard has been called into service, it is the hope of America to profit by the lessons of '98. Typhoid-stricken camps, polluted water supply, half organized commissaries and poor transport service made real patriots out of the "boys of '98." We are better prepared now.

Illinois State Journal: One of the best preparedness movements yet inaugurated is that fathered by The Chicago Tribune, for the care of families whose wage-earners are called to military service. This auxiliary work ought to be taken up everywhere, at once. When the boys go to the front they should be able to leave with full assurance that those dependent upon them will not suffer during their absence.

Galesburg Republican Register: It seems that the boys of the Sixth regiment must remain at home, but then there is the same chance of becoming patriotic at home that there is on the soil of Mexico. They will do their duty here as well as there.

Jacksonville Courier: "Theodore Roosevelt, the man who made the sacrifice that Hughes might get on the bases," is the way an exchange starts a heavy editorial. Theodore didn't make the sacrifice. It was made for him.

Quincy Whig: If this is to be a young man's war it is time for General Carranza to step down and out. General Zachary Taylor was 62 when the Mexican war of '46 broke out and General Winfield Scott was 60.

Petersburg Observer: The call to arms to settle the trouble on the Mexican border has at once obliterated all traces of the "hyphen."

ated all traces of the "hyphen," armies. This is natural and not at which has given President Wilson all reprehensible. At no time has Observer thought of there being any possibility of such citizens taking sides against the United States, to in Germany would naturally sympathize with Germany in the terrible conflict now raging in Europe, or why other citizens born in England The "hyphen" has been overworked or France would desire to see vice and at no time has it meant disloyalty to America.

Be Careful in Using Soap on Your Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulled coconut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

ORPET'S HOME POISONLESS

Cyanide of Soda, Not of Potassium, Found at Father's Place.

Chicago, July 7.—Dr. Carl S. Miner, a chemical expert, knocked part of the technical bottom out of the state's case against Will Orpet, on trial for the murder of Marion Lambert in the court of Judge Donnelly at Waukegan. Dr. Miner testified that the poison found in the ashes in the greenhouse on the McCormick estate was cyanide of soda. The state has contended that Orpet undoubtedly obtained the poison with which the state charges he killed Marion Lambert in Helm's woods on Feb. 9 from his father's greenhouse.

The state further brought out that Edward Orpet, the father, had sought to conceal cyanide in his greenhouse by scattering it in the ashes. The poison which killed Marion was cyanide of potassium. This latest revelation left the state's case up in the air as far as proving where Orpet obtained cyanide is concerned.

Judge W. G. Kent mingled with the politicians yesterday.

Ray Miller went to Pawpaw today on business.

Jule Williams and family visited in Sterling yesterday.

STERLING VS LEE CENTER

Cracking Good Game Assured Fans Next Sunday.

The Lee Center baseball team will play the Knights of Columbus team of Sterling at Lee Center Sunday. As the Sterling team has won most of its games this season and the Lee Center team has combined with that of Franklin Grove, making a strong aggregation, a fast game is certain. The usual car service from Amboy, the car leaving for Lee Center and returning after the game, will be given.

U. S. MARINE DIES IN BATTLE

Twenty-Seven Dominicans Reported Slain Before Disarmament Agreement.

Washington, July 7.—Another engagement between 250 revolutionists in Santo Domingo and American marines in which twenty-seven Dominicans were killed and five captured and one marine killed and eight wounded was reported to the navy department by Rear Admiral Caperton. The fight occurred July 1 before the tentative agreement was made for the disarmament of the rebels.

The American killed was Corporal George Frazee. Only one of the wounded marines was injured seriously. The revolutionists were routed, Admiral Caperton reported, carrying off a number of wounded during their retreat.

DEMENTTOWN DOINGS

The Sterling Gazette believes in describing pathetic things pathetically. Frinstance in describing a fire it says, among other things: "The high chair can be raised or lowered and the fact that it was lowered almost to the floor is probably the only thing that saved his life. How fortunate."

Rain broke up a Preparedness Parade in a western city. No one thought to take an umbrella.

Perfectly Safe

One of our southern friends saw "who will get the biggest crown," old Uncle Timothy starting away on a fishing expedition, and knowing how hard his wife worked, thought out: "Him what's got the biggest a good time to reprove him for his head."

ness. "Timothy," he said, "do you think it's right to leave your wife at the washtub while you pass your time fishing?"

"Yas-uh," replied the old colored man. "It's all right. Mah wife don't need no watching. She'll wuk jes' as hard as if I was dah."

Only to be Expected
A conscientious young Sunday School teacher had been telling her class of little boys about the crowns of glory and the rewards 'n heaven for good people.

"And now, tell me," she said, "who will get the biggest crown." There was a moment of deep silence and then a little voice piped out: "Him what's got the biggest a good time to reprove him for his head."

THE QUALITY STORE

Anna Nilsson's Magnificent Wardrobe.

Even those who have acquired "war brides" and raised "war babies" that return all sorts of magnificent dividends seldom have the chance to see $50,000 worth of women's clothes hanging on comparatively few hooks in a casual sort of way. In some of the modish Fifth Avenue shops in New York one can, of course, see a half million dollars' worth of clothes waiting for wearers. But not often does $50,000 worth get itself into one room for the use of just one woman.

Yet in the dressing room of Miss Anna Nilsson, one of the stars of "Who's Golly?", the new Pathé series, there are gowns whose cost rivals the salary of the President of the United States. All of these gowns were designed exclusively for Miss Nilsson's use in the "Who's Golly?" series by Hickson, modiste of New York's Four Hundred. They range from the flimsiest silver-trimmed chiffons to fur-topped silks. To a mere man their cost seems to run in inverse ratio to their weight—the less there is of them the more they cost.

But Miss Nilsson is thoroughly at home in all this luxury. A deft little maid—as blonde and nearly as pretty as Miss Nilsson herself—does nothing but take care of them before Miss Nilsson wears them, and after she returns them at night. There they hang under a cheap muslin cloth, the sharpest contrast in the world; a king's ransom protected by a few yards of shoddy.

In the adjoining room to this wardrobe is Miss Nilsson's real dressing-room. It is anything but what one would expect of an actress—unless one knows that actresses are not all they're painted. A neater, simpler, "homier," and more comfortable room could not be imagined. Everything has its place—and is in its place. Even the chairs take on the primness with which the whole room seems endowed. And on the walls are no smoke-stained portraits of prize-ring heroes or scented reminders of the dance.

Just above Miss Nilsson's dressing-table is a splendid photographic reproduction of one of Sorolla's charming surf pictures, every figure seemingly as alive as if humans actually were posing for a second in the frame. Bordering this are copies in sepia of two flood pictures of Nordstrom, the great Swedish painter, who comes from Helsingfors, where Miss Nilsson was born. Flanking these and all about are photographs of the world's greatest marble statues. On the dressing-table, in a beautiful gold frame, is a marble effigy of Dante.

Seemingly out of place in such delicate surroundings, on another wall, hangs a huge, two-handed sword such as the Crusaders carried almost a thousand years ago. And, sure enough, this is a family heirloom of Miss Nilsson on her mother's side, whose hard-fighting English ancestors went forth against the Saracens in the days when war meant individual combat.

And right here enters Miss Nilsson's one superstition: She will not permit her dressing-room at the Arrow studios to be photographed. Every effort—and every trick known to the persuasive camera man—has been used to get her permission for a series of pictures of her in this charming work-room. So far Miss Nilsson has defied every attempt. Some day—well, some day she may change her very charming feminine mind.

A Faithful Guest

"John," said Mrs. Stung, "if they send me a newspaper that I haven't subscribed to, do I have to pay for it?" "Certainly," replied Stung, "if you bring it into the house and read it."

"Well, suppose somebody comes and leaves cakes and pies on the premises and I eat them, do I have to pay for them?"

"Sure, if anybody brings lawn mowers and leaves them and you use them you have to pay for them, too."

"Suppose I start to buy an encyclopedia for $860, and pay ten cents on it, does that bind me to buy the whole encyclopedia?"

"It does. What have you been doing now?"

"It is like this: Mrs. Gadsby's boy came over to our house and played with Angeline one afternoon some time ago. Then he came again, earlier in the afternoon and stayed longer. Since that time he has been coming every day and sometimes he stays all day long."

"He comes early and he stays late, and he comes often, and he quarrels and fights with Angeline something frightful. They have invented a lot of noisy games, and now I am very tired of that Gadsby boy."

"It has reached a point where Mrs. Gadsby just sends him over to play with Angeline and goes off for the day and has a lovely time, free from childish sports and noises and sham battles and real ones. I was wondering whether, by letting the boy play here for one afternoon, I had let myself in for life. Did I bind myself to the care of that young one every day all day until he reaches his majority just because I took him in once, like the newspaper or the first dime on the encyclopedia?"

"Well, that is a delicate point," said Stung. "I couldn't say offhand just how liable you are. A woman who has formed the habit of letting you have her son has to a certain extent begun to depend upon you, and it would no doubt upset her plans materially if you were to betray her and violate your treaty obligations. However, the situation may be relieved, altho it is very tense at present. In order to prevent the outbreak of hostilities you might pack up and go away for the rest of the year."

"No! This thing began before we went away for the summer. That child was the first thing my eyes rested upon when we got back. He was sitting on the porch when we returned."

"If we went up into the mountains like Rip Van Winkle and stayed fifty years, an old gentleman would be standing on our steps when we got back. It would be the Gadsby boy. He would say that his mother had gone to Heaven, and had directed him to play with Angeline until Doomsday."

"Then," said Stung "we'll move into a different town."

Careful
However brave the policemen are they are careful about not breaking the laws and ordinances. A patrolman was kicking his feet down on the lake front the other morning when an excited citizen ran up to him and cried: "Say hurry up! A man has just jumped off the pier!"

"With his clothes on?" asked the officer.
"Yes—fully dressed. Hurry!"

"What do you want me to do? There ain't no ordinance against 3 man swimmin' as long as he's properly dressed."

Putting it up to Father
After several unsuccessful attempts to draw her husband into conversation at the restaurant the wife discovered the cause of his abstraction to be a beautiful girl dressed in black and seated at a nearby table.

"An attractive widow," observed the wife, coolly.
"Yes, indeed, a very attractive widow," agreed the husband enthusiastically.
"Yes," sighed the wife, "I wish I were one."

Rather Discouraging.
"Well, Twobble, how are you getting along in politics?"
"Can't say that I'm making much progress."
"No?"
"I've climbed into half a dozen political band wagons and every one of them broke down before I'd traveled far enough to reach an office."

A Tip From Sister.
Jack—"I'm in a quandry, sis. I want to propose to Mabel, but I'm not sure she'd accept me."
His Sister (who knows)—"Jack you're like the letter 'b'—in doubt when there's no need of it."

Acting for the Movies
"Now you must move your mouth when the pictures are being taken, and you are supposed to be speaking."
"But I don't know anything to say."
"Well, then, chew gum."

A Bad Habit.
"By the way, Mrs. Popkins," remarked the vicar after the service, "I was extremely sorry to see your husband leave the church in the middle of my sermon. I trust nothing was seriously the matter with him?"
"Oh, no sir," replied Mrs. Popkins. "It was nothing very serious; but you see, sir, the poor man do have a terrible habit of walkin' in 'is sleep."

Vienna Admits Five-Mile Retreat Before Slavs.

GERMAN LINE AGAIN DENTED

Czar's Forces Penetrate Defenses on Kolomea Road, Exposing East Galicia—Teutons Lose 500,000—Prisoners 10,000 in Day—Road to Lemberg Is Cut.

Vienna, July 7.—A defeat for the Austrians, in which they were driven back nearly five miles on the Delatyn-Kolomea road, is officially admitted in the statement issued by the Austrian war office.

Teuton Losses 500,000.
Petrograd, July 7.—Nearly a half million Austrians and Germans have been put out of commission since General Brusilov began his great advance a month ago. The grand total of prisoners to date is in round numbers 253,000 of which 4,500 are officers.

Without the actual figures regarding the dead and wounded, careful estimates by military experts based on the best information, place the latter at 200,000 to 220,000. The Austrians predominate overwhelmingly among the prisoners, but among the dead and wounded it is said that a fairly large percentage are Germans. The German losses in stopping the Russian advance on Kovel and in counterattacks made in solid ranks were enormous. 10,000 more prisoners were made.

The booty captured reaches incalculable figures. It is figured that 250 guns of various sizes and upward of 700 machine guns is a conservative estimate. In addition, vast quantities of munitions, supplies and transports have fallen into hands of the Russians.

East Galicia Laid Open.
The success of General Letichitzky's advance west of Kolomea, where he has cut the railroad into Hungary at Mikuliczyn, is emphasized as a new body blow to the Austrian defense of East Galicia. Northwest of Kolomea his troops are within ten miles of Nadworna, well to the rear of the Austrian right flank, facing Tarnopol, between the Stripa and Zlota Lipa rivers.

On the extreme right flank of Brusilov's front the Russians are viciously attacking the Germans at Czartorysk and Kolki. They have broken through several lines of the enemy's fortifications here, threatening the flank of the German positions before Lutsk. These successes have considerably lessened the pressure on the Russian center in that district.

Another interesting situation is developing at Baranovichi, where the advance of the Russian offensive has brought their heavy guns within reach of that important railway junction.

Russians Cut Teuton Road.

The Russians have cut the Delatyn-Korostovo railway, the principal line of communications for the Austro-German forces defending Lemberg, and have routed the enemy on the right bank of the Dniester, according to an official statement issued by the war office.

Berlin Concedes Russ Dent Line.

Berlin, July 7.—After repeated Russian attacks on positions held by troops of General Count von Bothmer along one sector of the front in Galicia had been repulsed, the Teutonic lines were partly transferred to a neighboring sector, the war office announces.

Fierce fighting is in progress both in the Baranovichi region and along the front in Volhynia. In the former sector the engagements are proceeding favorably for the Germans, says the official statement, while in Volhynia the result is as yet inconclusive.

Started with Nothing.

Rockford, Ill., July 7.—After losing $8,000 in two years in the restaurant business, Mrs. Grace S. Burr, owner of the Imperial cafe, has filed a petition in bankruptcy; liabilities, $23,000; assets, $15,000.

Oil Found on Farm.

Amboy, Ill., July 7.—Oil has been discovered on the farm of R. W. Heaton, and plans have been made to make deep borings. Experts express the belief that the oil deposits are extensive.

Man 84 Poison Victim.

Poplar Grove, Ill., July 7.—James Montgomery, eighty-four years of age, swallowed a mouthful of liquid poison, mistaking the bottle for one that contained medicine, and died shortly afterward.

Lightning Kills Farmer.

Anna, Ill., July 7.—Roy Rendleman, a young farmer residing four miles east of Anna, was killed by lightning when hauling hay in his field. His team also was instantly killed.

Wheat Harvest Is On.

Urbana, Ill., July 7.—Wheat has "turned" this week. This is about a week later than the cutting was commenced last year, but indications are the yield will be heavier.

The relation between cars and road mileage varies widely in different sections. There is only one motor car for every 6 miles of rural road in Nevada, but nearly six motor cars for every mile of such road in New Jersey. There is an average of one motor car registration for every 55 persons in the United States. Iowa apparently leads, however, with one motor car for every 16 persons, while only one for 200 persons is registered for Alabama. It must be understood, however, that the figures of registration do not necessarily represent a total number of cars, as some of the States do not require annual registration, others group pleasure and commercial cars and motor cycles in

Good Measure

"I can't see why these wise fellows are fooling around with spineless cactus!" declared Gowse. "I don't discern any good in it and I don't know anything about it. Spineless public men are common enough to take away the glamour of that kind of thing and spineless cactus aren't worth anything anyway."

"Boneless cattle would be a lot more to the point. Hang it! I think the butchers and stock men are cultivating as much bone as possible in the meat these days. A dollar's worth of steak makes a much neater bundle and is easier handled when it is mostly bone, and I think the cattle are bred to have the heaviest kind of bones, also."

"Perhaps you're right," answered Meeker. "But steaks have to be small so the people can get them into apartment house ovens, you know. There wouldn't be room for a good, old-fashioned steak in a modern kitchen, much less on the modern range. It's the same with coal. I think they have a kind of compressed coal nowadays, too, a little of it weighs so much."

"Why, when I was a boy and had to go down into the basement Saturday morning and haul coal around and pile it up in the basement there used to be the biggest mountain of coal for a ton that you ever saw! It used to take two whole Saturdays to put it away. But a ton of coal now!"

"Well," said Gowse, "I'll guarantee that the coal nowadays is no heavier than it used to be when I was a boy. The coal they used to bring us was heavy enough, as I know mighty well, for I used to have to carry it up, two buckets at a time to be burned in a grate on the second floor. Science hasn't made any very rapid strides toward the production of a coal that is any heavier than it was in those days."

"You weren't very wise. Now if that had been me I would have hauled up the smallest buckets in town to carry that coal in, and they would have had good high bottoms in them too. I was wise to all such tricks when I was a boy."

"That might have been all right for you, but I had to get done. I had a long program for every Saturday and I had to carry up a certain amount of coal as the first part of the program. So I had to carry as much at a time as possible. I piled it up good and high in each bucket. There was nothing stinky about me. Those buckets were overflowing. Every time I hit the banisters or the wall on my way up some of the coal would roll out of the bucket and down the stairs, brim-brim!"

"A steak falling on the floor of a kitchenette in a modern apartment couldn't make more noise than the lumps of that old time coal made when they slopped over and rolled down several flights of stairs."

Badly Scared.

A young lady much admired by a young man staying at the same house, was kissed by him one day, greatly to her indignation.

"If you dare to kiss me again," she said, "I must tell my father."

Kiss her again the ardent lover did. Upon this she fled to her father's room, where she happened to find him examining a gun.

"Oh, papa," she exclaimed, "do run downstairs and show Mr. Muchlove your gun. He is so interested in guns." "Very well, dear," was the good natured reply, and down went the unsuspecting father. At sight of the girl's parent armed with the gun the young man fled precipitately.

His Dear Young Friends.

"Ah—h'm—my dear friends," said the statesman, who had kindly consented at the earnest solicitation of the superintendent to address a few helpful words to the Sabbath school, "looking back over my long career I am convinced that the only way to win success is to deal honorably with one's fellow men, to follow the dictates of conscience, to heed the teachings of the golden rule and to walk in the straight and narrow way. But—ah!—would any little boy or girl like to ask me a question?"

"Well, say," spoke up one of the dear young friends, "aint you kinder sorry you didn't find it out sooner?"

Sailed on the Websterian

The bank cashier, disguised, was boarding the steamer with his loot when he noticed a man standing by the rail who looked like a detective. "Do you think that when he sees me on the seas he will seize me?" he asked of his accomplice.

"I apprehend you need not apprehend that he will apprehend you," responded the other comfortingly.

During a particularly nasty dust storm at one of the camps an English recruit ventured to seek shelter in the sacred precincts of the cook's domain.

After a time he broke an awkward silence by saying to the cook:

"If you put the lid on that camp kettle you would not get so much of the dust in your soup."

The irate cook glared at the intruder, and then broke out:

"See here, me lad. Your business is to serve your country."

"Yes," interrupted the recruit, "but not to eat it."

GERMAN REVOLT FOLLOWS DRIVE

Mob Cries for Peace at Palace of Kaiser.

FRENCH DRIVE IS HALTED

German Counter Attacks Repulsed. British Continue to Gain on North. French Advance Has Been Consistent—Two Army Corps Pass Through Fighting Intact—Hold All Gains.

London, July 7.—Milan travellers, arriving in Switzerland from Germany, report serious riots in many German cities, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch received from Milan.

The German populace, the dispatch states, has been clamoring for peace with increased voice since the allies began their terrific offensive in France.

Immediately upon receipt of the first news of the allies' concentrated drive the crowd began marching the streets of Berlin, the travellers assert. They shouted:

"We have had enough of war; let us have peace."

Worse Than Food Riots.

The present disorders, it is said, are far more serious than the recent food riots, having all the characteristics of a popular revolt.

In one place the populace barred the streets. Fighting followed between the people and the police, and it is said that some persons were killed and wounded by the police, who in many instances lost their calm judgment.

Crisis in Berlin.

The crisis in Berlin is especially grave, the travellers said. The people surrounded the troops and implored them to join the revolt. They pulled off the wheels from military wagons and gun carriages and used them as part of the barricades when they battled with the police.

The most menacing demonstration of all is said to have taken place in Potsdam, the kaiser's residence place, on Sunday. A vast mob gathered in the vicinity of the imperial palace and indulged in imprecations against the German ruler and the royal family.

Germans Check French Drive.

London, July 7.—After five days of steady advance by the French forces both on the north and south of the Somme the offensive on the French sectors of the great battle of Picardy passed to the Germans, and desperate counter attacks indicated a decisive, if temporary, check to the French progress.

Paris admits that the Germans have struck terrific blows at the advanced French lines north of the village of Hem, which was captured Wednesday, and on the south of the Somme on the line from Belloyen-Santerre to Estrees, both of which towns the Germans officially admitted had been evacuated before the French assault.

Germans Lose Heavily.

Despite the power of the German counter offensive, however, the mid-night communique from Paris declares all counter moves were repulsed and heavy losses inflicted upon the attacking forces.

Further to the north the British forces are continuing their steady hammering of the German lines, though meeting with more determined resistance than have the French.

Some progress is claimed by the British near Thiepval and admitted by the German war office, but with this exception the lines appear to be practically unchanged on the British front in the last midnight report.

French Advance Uniform.

In the first five days of their battle against the Germans the French have advanced with remarkable uniformity. The ground gained varied each day in depth at different points, but the gains have averaged about the same along the entire front, and the French are now firmly installed between the German second and third lines of defense over a front in excess of seven miles.

That the French losses have been comparatively insignificant is indicated by the maintenance on the front line of attack at their own request of the same two army corps that made the first assault on the German positions Saturday morning.

Kaiser Goes to Front.

London, July 7.—The kaiser is reported to have arrived on the Somme front, accompanied by members of his general staff, who will direct the defense of the German lines in the great allied offensive.

An Amsterdam dispatch reported the kaiser's arrival, and said he had established headquarters near the front and not far from Cambrai and opposite the British front.

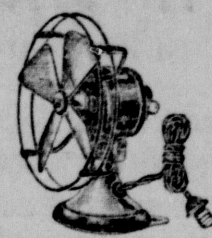

300 MINERS DIE IN QUAKE

Earth Tremor Causes Workings in Sicily to Cave In.

London, July 7.—A violent earthquake at Caltanissetta, Sicily, causing the deaths of nearly 300 persons, is reported in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome.

It is said the victims were in three sulphur mines, which the earthquake caused to cave in.

If you are entertaining call us up, No. 5, and we will publish any news of interest in the social columns of the Evening Telegraph.
